

Heather Wynne, PhD is a licensed psychologist with a strong commitment to supporting children and advancing the field of special education. She is currently a Special Education Supervisor. Her present and previous roles also include being a School Psychologist, Adjunct Professor, and Evaluator.

Dr. Wynne has authored publications and delivered presentations on topics including mentoring, human rights, trauma-informed practices, achievement goals, and resiliency. Her work reflects a deep dedication to fostering supportive educational environments so that students could thrive and reach their fullest potential.

She earned her Bachelor of Science in Psychology, with a minor in Sociology, from Quinnipiac University. She went on to complete both her Master's degree in Educational Psychology and her doctorate in School Psychology at Fordham University. Additionally, she holds a certificate in Educational Leadership from Stony Brook University.